

So you want to organise a Fundraiser Pub Quiz?

This can be as easy or as hard as you like to make it.

Most pubs do a weekly quiz night, some specialise in fundraisers.

Some will offer a venue, supply the quiz but you will need to supply the quizmaster, some will supply all of the above and basically run the whole shooting box. Most will supply bar tabs as prizes.

The first thing to do is chat to your local publican, he/she will tell you what they can offer.

Next decide how much effort you want to put in.

The easy way is to arrange the date and time, charge an entry fee and have the quiz with just the bar tabs as prizes. (Boring)

How do I do it (this may or may not be the best but suits me).

My pub organises the quiz and supplies the quizmaster and some extra staff to collect monies and dish out prizes etc.

Currently I charge a per person entry fee and sell tickets for a continuous raffle which is drawn throughout the night between quiz rounds.

The hardest part is getting sponsorship for prizes but I usually manage to get enough for 5 or 6 draws per round.

We also do a "buy an answer" for a couple of dollars which can add hundreds to the pot.

I have included the flyer we used for last year's quiz as an idea generator.

I hope this has been helpful.
